The Warsaw Pact

The Warsaw Pact was a military alliance formed by Eastern bloc countries in 1955. Its primary purpose was to deter the threat of NATO (North Atlantic Treaty Organization) expansion into Eastern Europe. The pact was established by the Soviet Union and included 7 founding members: Bulgaria, Czechoslovakia, East Germany, Hungary, Poland, Romania, and the Soviet Union. It was dissolved in 1991 with the fall of the Soviet Union.

The members of the Warsaw Pact agreed to mutual defense, which meant that if one member was attacked, all members would come to its aid. The pact also included economic cooperation and cultural exchanges.

The Warsaw Pact was a significant factor in the Cold War, as it was a response to NATO's establishment in 1949. The two alliances were in direct competition for influence in the regions they controlled.
